JOHN W. GEARY.

For some months past, we have noticed that the press of this and other States has been devoting a great deal of space to a discussion of the attitude of the Governor of Pennsylvania on the great issues of the day. We live in an age of free speech and the liberty of the press, but we have been frequently impressed with the facts that there is an occasional abuse of these prerogatives—the press running into ribaldry and men indulging in a license of vile utterances from which evil and not good so often is the result.

The American people are so prone to deal harshly with their servants and so liable do overlook the virtuous while running heedlessly after what is vicious and visionary in public men.

In this age of political corruption we need no influence so much as the firm will of pure men; the bold desire to do what is right, and when these are found in a public man it is our duty to uphold him when he seeks to put them in official practice. Viewed from his standpoint we know of no official to-day in any part of the country who so much deserves and should so generously command popular confidence as Governor John W Geary. He has taken advance ground on every important point of governmental policy, and yet he is not beyond the organization of the Republican party nor does he intend going that distance to caary out his views.

We might cite many facts to show how just has been the past course of Gov. Geary in order to prove what we mean, but we confine ourselves only to a few that are familiar to the general public.

From the day he became Governor to the present hour, he has devoted himself singly to promoting what he considered the best interests of the people of Pennsylvania, namely: To pay what they owed and make others pay what are due them. In the four years which Geary has occupied the chair of State, the liquidation of our public debt exceeded that of any eight years, for the last seventy-four. While this reduction was in progress the repeal of the state tax took place. Governor Geary recommending that act, and to make up whatever deficiency was created in our revenues by that repeal, his Attorney General has collected back taxes and present dues from corporations sufficient to meet all demands on the Treasury. In addition there are cases now pending in the Supreme court, and which will be decided within the next two years that will put more than two millions of dollars in the State Treasury.

There are very few men when they pay their taxes think or know that for the repeal of the State tax on their homes they have John W. Geary to thank, yet it is an historical fact that he recommended, through the State Treasurer, that act. Take another point of view. Last winter it was proposed to use the money in the sinking fund to build railroads. The influence brought to bear on the subject was the most potential ever wielded in the Legislature and the bill to despoil the sinking fund was put through by the sharpest goads of the lobby. But the plain provisions of the Constitution forbade such legislation.

Governor Geary had but one course to pursue, obey the Constitution and incur the bitter opposition of a giant company. Most men would have shrunk from the duty and taken the bribe temptingly held out. It was a defiant step in antagonism to individual wealth and overshadowing corporate prestige. But the bill to break up the sinking fund was unconstitutional, a political monstrosity and a legislative fraud.

These facts induced Governor Geary to veto it. That veto went before the people and the representatives of the people successfully resisted the efforts of the lobby to re-enact a similar bill this year. The fact that it was not done is due to the stern antagonism Governor Geary gave to the measure.

Thus he not only pays millions of State indebtedness, relieving the people of State taxes and the payment of interest on public indebtedness, but by his single action he defeats a bold effort to plunder the sinking fund.

These are the practical results of the labors of a practical man. It is the statesmanship which affects all classes for good because it relieves from burdens on one hand, and presents the misapplication of public funds on the other.

We select these two points in the career in public service of our Chief Magistrate to show those who carp at him as a man and as an officer that their complaints are without cause and their criticisms worthless. A bold man proceeding radically for the right, expects to provoke opposition, but it ought to be to his ideas and not to him personally. He who cannot advance or combat an idea is poor authority in any council. To such men as Geary their is no substance or attraction in theory He deals with results, and while he is engaged in accomplishing these, has no time to bicker or cavil with hypercutical opponents.

It is well for the business and credit of the country we have men of this caste of mind to take the helm of State in peace and draw the sword of defence in war. They are the pioneers in government, leading the people to higher perfections and gradually estranging them from the evil influence welded by the demagogues of politics. It is well that the people appreciate and rely upon such men, as, without their example corruption would run roit in all branches of the government, and our free institutions made a curse instead of a blessing.

INFORMATION TO SOLDIERS.

To soldiers entitled to a quarter section of the public lands under the acts of Congress, and desirous of locating it and trying their fortunes in the West the experiences of a pioneer may be of advantage. A discharged soldier who has settled in Kansas writes to a Western paper some details of his experience, which will be of interest to those of limited means who wish to engage in farming where land is cheap. He located a homestead of 160 acres in Dickinson county, within fourteen miles of the Kansas Pacific railroad—as good land, he says, as can be found in Kansas or in Kentucky. His homestead cost him $18 50; he has to live on it five years, and at the expiration of that period, if he can prove he has not been absent from it more than six months at one time, he can get a patent for it from the Government, and it is then his to dispose of as he thinks proper. The only advantage the soldier has over the citizen in this matter is, that he can take under the Homestead law 160 acres of land within twenty miles of a railroad to which land grants have been made, while the citizen can take only 80 acres. But outside of railroad limits there is no such distinction. Water is found there by digging at an average depth of forty feet. Timber is scarce and lumber expensive. Horses are high, but Indian ponies can be bought at from $30 to $60 each. They are good for herding or for common light service. Texas cattle can be bought, one year old, at $5 to $6; two years old, $10 to $12; three years old, $15 to $20. They are generally very poor when they arrive in the State, but prairie grass is plenty, and they soon improve in condition; purchasers often double their money on them in a single year. Railroad lands are selling from $3 to $7 per acre.

RAILROAD COLLISION.—Newark, N. J. Mag 13.—The down train on the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western railroad this morning at Harrison Crossing ran over a team of mules attached to an ice wagon killing one of the mules.—The driver escaped by jumping off before the collision. The train suffered no injury. As in the accident at Elizabethport to Barnum's circus wagon, the ice man had allowed his team to follow another wagon, and was unable to get it out of the way in time to avoid a collision.

REDUCTION of taxation and economy seem to be the order of the day in the Government departments. It is announced that the Commissioner of Internal Revenue will next month commence a reduction in the number of the Internal Revenue Districts, in the country with a view to their consolidation. The removal of special taxes, in accordance with the recent act of Congress, has made this reduction possible, which will be attended with a considerable saving.

CONSERVATIVE DEMOCRATS.

"No indignation can be too stern, and no scorn too severe, for the assertions, by unscrupulous Radical leaders, that the great Democratic and Conservative party of the Union has or can have sympathy with disorders or violence in any part of the country, or in the deprivation of any man of his rights under the Constitution."

Thus exclaim fourteen Senators and ninety-five Representatives in Congress Conservative Democrats, as they choose to call themselves.

Let us, for a moment, examine into their record as the conservertors of the public peace, defenders of human rights, and supporters of the constitution.

In pretended defense of liberty, the Democracy abolished all limitations upon and by force of arms, attempted to establish slavery in all the National territory.

The Republicans, through the power of a superior civilization, an inate love of justice and indominatable individual enterprize, proved the capacity of liberty to occupy the territories in spite of the "Conservative Democracy."

In defiance of a popular majority, the "Conservative Democracy" inaugurated rebellion, that the Union might be destroyed, and slavery perpetuated.

The Republicans subdued rebellion and restored the Union, that liberty might be national and everlasting.

For ten years the Conservadive Democracy have persistently aimed to destroy, whilst the Republicans have persistently and succesfully aimed to reconstruct and re-establish liberty and the Union. Even now, while pretending to acquiesce in our reconstructed nationality, the Conservative Democracy denounce, in terms of unimitigated scorn, the basis upon which it is reestablished, and express in words of loving sympathy their cordial appreciation of the destructive rebel sentiment which pervades every element of their party organism.

Conservative Democracy, Heaven save the mark! It has been, for fifteen years, the synonym of destruction, nothing more—nothing less. And yet, these 14 Senators and 95 Representatives roll the words as a sweet morsel under their tongues, and boldly and shamelessly flaunt their transparent falsehoods in the face of the American people.

Is it not apparent that the Conservative Democracy are the only destructives and the Radical Republicans the only practical Conservatives? Who, but the Democracy in the years that are past, or in the present, have sympathized with, or do sympathize with disorders and violence? Who, but the Conservative Democracy have endeavored, by all the means and appliances at command, to deprive a whole race—four millions of citizens—of their rights? Who, but these same 14 Senators and 95 Representatives, while the ink which fixed their names to the remarkable manifesto from which the above quotation is made, is yet wet, spoke and voted persistently in behalf of disorders and violence and to deprive milllions of loyal and law abiding citizens of security in their rights under the Constitution.

READ THIS.

What would be our condition under the system of free trade which the Democratic party wishes to establish, when even under our present tariff we are only partially protected against foreign competition! A late English journal in the iron trade interest says;

"American requirements continue to be the great support of the South Wales iron works, fully three-fourths of the rails now turned out being for the markets of the United States. Orders from that quarter are still coming in regularly, and had the makers to contend with a less restricted tariff, there is no doubt that the demand for the iron from this country would be largely increased."

We most cordially agree with the editor of our foreign contemporary (says the Pittsburg Gazette) that the tariff is slightly in the way of English iron manufacturers. But there are those among us so blind to the interests of our own land that they would wipe out all vestige of home tariff and inaugurate a ruinous era of free trade, permitting our industries to perish in order that foreigners might grow rich on the trade they would monopolize to themselves, if the fires in our workshops were quenched by such a disastrous and misguided policy.

AN HONEST CONFESSION FROM ENGLAND.

Certain simple-minded Americans habitually regard the English with a reverence similar to that which some old Peruvians displayed toward their Spanish conquerors and plunderers.

A willingness to worship the foreign thieves as beings of an intelligence higher than human, to yield to them the treasures and fruits of the country, to point out for their benefit any weak spots in the national defenses, to perform menial offices for them—these amiable traits formerly belonging to those of the South American Indians who were least affected by political prejudices, seem at present to be enjoyed in considerable perfection by the North American Free Traders.

Doubtless the idea that independent nationality is more precious than rubies, not to say more precious than a slight percentage of saving through the purchase of shoddy cloth or rotten railroad iron, would have been as hard to instil into the noddle of a Peruvian Judas as into that of an American Commissioner—well, we will mention no names.

To those of our readers who respect English philosophy, and who love to drink in commercial wisdom from English oracles, we commend an extract from the last publication of John Ruskin, the famous English writer upon art, who, in his book upon political economy entitled "Fors Clavigera," thus confesses:

"England," he says, "is afraid of the Russians, afraid of the Prussians, afraid of the Americans, afraid of the Hindoos, afraid of the Chinese, afraid of the Japanese, afraid of the New Zealanders, and afraid of the Caffres; and very justly so, being conscious that our only real desire respecting any of these nations has been to get as much out of them as we could."

That this frank admission, which we italicise, will open the eyes of any good, solid, bigoted believer in Manchester philanthropy and logic, and in the broad fraternizing influences of Free Trade, we hardly expect; for of such it may be usually said, "Ephraim is joined to his idols, let him alone." To those honest disciples of English Free Trade, however, in whom the springs of common sense are not yet entirely dried up, and who still have lucid internals, we offer our extract without further comment.—Phila. North American.

ANOTHER SLICE FROM THE DEM. ADDRESS.

"If the career of these conspirators be not checked, the downfall of free government is inevitable, and with it the elevation of a military Dictator on the ruins of the Republic."

"Conspirators" indeed! and this from a party, whose whole existence for a decade, has been one grand conspiracy against the national life, against liberty, against the national honor and credit, against the Constitution and laws, against good morals, against educational advancement, and, whose masked agents, in a large section of the Union, are even now whipping, maiming, burning houses and assasinating citizens for opinion's sake, and in behalf of Democracy.

"The downfall of free government." Who but Democrats, in this country, have attempted the distruction of free government, and who, but Republicans have defended it?

Who, in this country but Democrats, have undertaken the organization of a slave empire, and who, but Republicans have nationalized liberty?

"A military Dictator." Than the Democracy what other party in this country is so subservient as to submit to, or so cowardly as to fear a Dictator? Wherein is a Dictatorship possible, if the Constitution and laws are maintained, and who, but the Democracy, have attempted to overthrow or subvert these guaranieces?

"The ruins of the Republic." Now, Messrs. 14 Senators and 95 Representatives, to what ruins do you refer? Do you mean the dissevered Union, the dismantled Navy, the disbanded Army and the dishonored national credit which your party left as a heritage in 1861; or, do you mean the restored Union, the invincible Army and Navy organized by Republicans, and the re-established nationality and credit which commands the confidence of the civilized world, and which are the product of the patriotism, sagacity and courage of the Republican party? Is it the discredited and ruined Republic of 1861, or the honored free, and consolidated nation of 1871, to which you refer?

THE DEMOCRACY AND MR. SUMNER.

The following paragraph appears in the Washington letter to the Philadelphia "City Item":

"From all portions of the South, come letters to Mr. Sumner, from distinguished men, asking him to take the Democratic nomination for the Presidency, if it is tendered by the Convention, which now seems probable. Tammany being the only obstacle."

It is not quite clear whether this statement is thrown out in the interest of Mr. Sumner or of the Democracy. If the letters have been received as stated, then it is probably the public are informed of the fact, at the instance of the Senator, as no other person would be authorized to divulge so important a personal, and at the same time, political movement. If the letters have not been received, then the statement must have been made at the instance of some Democratic wire-puller, for the purpose of stimulating Mr. Sumner to some act of hostility to the Republican party, that will make him available as a Democratic candidate. In either event, some body will be cheated. Mr. Sumner, certainly if he becomes the candidate of the Democracy, whose only admiration for him, is their hatred of Republicanism. The Democrats certainly, for the Senator has but one Sentiment in common with that party—personal dislike of President Grant. This would be small distinctive capital indeed, for a candidate, or a party, and with the masses of the Democracy, would be overbalanced by his vote for the suppression of Ku Klux violence and his fast and time honored friendship for the equal rights of man.

The announcement, simply demonstrates the desperate straits to which the Democracy are driven, and the danger which a true statesman incurs, when even by a mistake, he elicits the approval of any considerable number of the Democratic leaders.

H'DQ'RS DEPARTMENT OF PENN., GRAND ARMY OF THE REPUBLIC, 737 Sansom St., Phila., May 3d, 1871.

COMRADES: The 30th of May has been set apart by the National Encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic, as the day in each year when the army of the living, is to meet in their silent camping grounds, the army of the dead. I know that in every spot in this department where a Union Soldier sleeps, a loyal heart will be found to do him honor, and with willing hands strew on the patriot's grave the first spring flowers of the land he died to save and regenerate.

The Grand Army of the Republic has taken on itself the duty of conducting, wherever there is a Post, the memorial services on Decoration Day. It is requested that every comrade attend on the 30th inst., and give one day to the comrades gone before. The militia and other organizations should be invited to participate, as well as the citizens, to whom as soldiers we owe so much.—Ask that the schools in your vicinity be closed for the day, that the children may join with you and learn lessons of patriotism near the soldier's graves.

It is necessary to fully record the names of all soldiers, sailors and marines buried in the cemeteries you decorate, with full particulars of service and death, and transmit the same to the Assistant Adjutant General, at Pottsville. You will find accompanying, a form for Decoration Services which whenever practicable, you will strictly follow.

DENE HOLLOW.—This is the name of a new Story, by Mrs. Henry Wood, the celebrated author of "EAST LYNNE," just begun in the Philadelphia "Saturday Evening Post." It is a story marked by the usual characteristics of Mrs. Wood—combining great interests and power with the teaching of a moral lesson. The Post also contains numerous other stories great care being taken not to admit anything into its columns which would be unsuitable for family reading. The Post though now approaching its fiftieth birthday, still manifests all the vigor and sprightliness of youth. Price, $2.50 a year. Single numbers for sale by newsdealers. Price six cents. If the newsdealers should not have it, inclose the money to the publishers, H. Peterson & Co, 319 Walnut street, Philadelphia, who will send the numbers by mail. By inclosing one dollar, all the numbers containing Mrs. Wood's story will be forwarded as soon as issued.

GEN. LEE CHAMPIONED BY A NORTHERN SCALAWAG.

Rev. W. W. Hicks is travelling about in the South delivering a lecture eulogistic of the late General Robert E. Lee, and in the newspaper notice of its delivery in Eufaula, Alabama, we are told that "applause, which could not be repressed, broke forth as the splendid orator showed that Lee's work was not yet done, and that the cause that he so boldly championed was not yet lost."

We clip the above from the New York Tribune. This reverend gentleman is a Northern carpet-bagger who three or four years ago went South for the benefit of his health. Previous to that time he was, or professed to be, a thorough Republican, at one period presiding over a congregotion of marked liberal tendencies, and at another editing a Republican journal. In the South he soon became noted for his servile fawning upon the rebel aristocracy, crawling into favor by subtle sinuosities which would have done credit to a first class snake, and which really did him credit, after his kind. In the pages of a monthly magazine which he subsequently conducted, he amused himself by drawing his own portrait and writing "apostate" across his brows. Wicked rebel as was General Lee, this man is utterly unworthy to speak of him, and we should think that the bones of the dead chieftain would stir in their grave under the eulogy of the hideous hypocrite. This "splendid orator" will probably return North one of these days, and when he does we shall expect to witness another political re-conversion, for he will be sure to conform the character of his crawling to the tastes and opinions of the people among whom he may happen temporarily to be.—Pittsburg Commercial.

BALLOU'S MAGAZINE FOR JUNE.—Ballou's Magazine for June has appeared with a list of contents which will tempt the most indifferent of literary epicures. There are some twenty-six different articles in the June number, some of them handsomely illustrated. The great tale of the season, however, is "The Old Clerk's Secret," written for Ballou's by Levi Beardsley, Esq., the late special agent of a Washington department, and who has produced a wonderful story, full of incident and plot of Washington life. But all of the stories in this number are good, and here is a list of them:—"The New King and Queen of Spain;" "Madrid and its People;" "Scenes of the Revolution;" "Neufchatel, Switzerland;" "The Wounded Indian;" "The Harlem Bridge;" "Odessa, Russia;" "A Leap in the Dark;" "The Coquette;" "The Old Clerk's Secret;" "Tired;" "The Flower of the Family;" "Words—an Invocation;" "Endicott;" "Ebbed;" "Umphqua River;" "A Contrary Fit;" "An Adventure in Behring Sea;" "The Demon Page;" "Camille;" "The Rose and the Bee;" Our Young People's Story-Teller—"Guess: or, The Son of a Politician;" "Hilary's Pony;" "An Adventure in the Pennesseewassee;" "The Baseball-man's own Manual"—Humorous Illustrations. Terms, $1.50 per year, or 15 cents single copy. For sale all over the country. Address Thomes & Talbot, 63 Congress Street, Boston.

THE BEST THING YET.—We have recently had sufficient evidence of the excellence of Mr. Speer's Port Grape Wine, which not only convince us that all we can say in its praise is deserved, but that we are really conferring a favor on our readers in advising them to use it. The wine is a pure grape wine, entirely unmixed, and the most agreeable and dilicious in flavor of any we ever tasted. Of its medicinal qualities, we entertain the very highest opinion, and upon the evidence of our own observation. Three bottles of this wine have nearly effected a perfect cure in the case of our little boy, who has been seven years afflicted with incontinence of the urine. A great number of remedies have been tried without benefit, and the most eminent physicians consulted with a like result. Speer's Port Grape Wine is effecting a cure. We have given this testimony without the knowledge of Mr Speer, in the hope that others may be induced to try the virtue of this wine.—Mr. Pangborn, Editor of Jersey City Times.

HOW TO CHOOSE A WIFE.—We propose to give the following recipe for the selection of a wife;

"A place for everything and everything in its place," said an old man to his daughter. "Select not a wife, my son, who will ever step over a broomstick."

The son was obedient to the lesson.

"Now," said he pleasantly, on a May day to one of his companions, "I appoint this broomstick to choose me a wife. The lady who will not step over it shall have the offer of my hand."

They passed from the splendid saloon to the grove. Some tumbled over the broomstick, others jumped over it. At length a young lady stooped and put it in its place. The promise was fulfilled. She became the wife of an educated and wealthy young man, and he the husband of a prudent, industrious, and lovely wife. He brought a fortune to her, and she knew how to save one. It is not easy to decide which was under the greatest obligations, both were rich, and each enriched the other.

Remember this, young ladies of Centre Co. Some fine young men may be on the watch to see which of you will put the "broomstick" in the proper place, or step over it.

In Death Not Divided.

The following striking sketch in verse, appearing lately in the Toledo (O.) Blade, over the signature of Mr. Will M. Carleton, of Hillsdale, Mich., is not only profoundly true to human nature, but also invests such nature, even through a hard, superficial aspect, with that struggling instinct towards the good and gentle which is never wholly eradicated from any human soul. The use of examples from the lowest grades of vice to illustrate the immortality of this latter innate trait is usually a device of the genius, seeking the strongest and most immediate dramatic effect for its picture; but in the present case the poet goes no lower in the moral scale than a hard- headed, self-willed old farmer, directing the drawing up of "the papers" which shall "separate" his Betsy and himself for the brief remainder of their nearly-told lives, and the result is at once an admirable study of character and a moral demonstration in nowise violative of the purest epicart. The melting, by swift degrees, of the husband's heart as he enumerates one after another the things to be "made over" to the renounced wife; the incidental recollections of loving offices in the past; the increasing spirit of generous self-sacrifice; and, through all the never-relaxing, stern purpose of absolute separation from the woman—until death, are characteristics and contrasts constituting that consistency in inconsistency which it is the inspiration of genius to recognize in human nature, and the prerogative of the best art fitly to portray:

BETSY AND I ARE OUT.
(A Farm Ballad)

Draw up the papers, lawyer, and make 'em good and stout;
For things at home are cross-ways, and Betsey and I are out.
We who have worked together so long as man and wife
Must pull in single harness the rest of our nat'ral life.

"What is the matter?" say you? I swan! it's hard to tell;
Most of the years behind us we've passed by very well;
I have no other woman—she has no other man,
Only we've lived together so long as we ever can.

So I have talked with Betsey and Betsey has talked with me;
So we've agreed together that we can't never agree;
Not that we've catched each other in any terrible crime;
We've been gatherin' this for years, a little at a time.

There was a stock of temper we both had, for a start:
Although we ne'er suspected 'twould take us two apart;
I had my various failings, bred in the flesh and bone,
And Betsey, like all good women, had a temper of her own.

The first thing I remember whereon we disagreed
Was something concerning heaven—a difference in our creed.
We arg'ed the thing at breakfast—we arg'ed the thing at tea—
And the more we arg'ed the question, the more we didn't agree.

And the next that I remember was when we lost a cow;
She had kicked the bucket, for certain—the question was only—How?
I held my own opinion, and Betsy another had;
And when we were done a talkin', we both of us were mad.

And the next that I remember, it started in a joke;
But full for a week it lasted, and neither of us spoke.
And the next was when I scolded because she broke a bowl;
And she said I was mean and stingy, and hadn't any soul.

And so that bowl kept pourin' dissensions in our cup;
And so that blamed cow-critter was always a coniu' up;
And so that heaven we arg'ed no nearer to us got;
But it gives us a taste of somethin' a thousand times as hot.

And as the thing kept workin' and all the selfsame way;
Always somethin' to arg'e, and somethin' sharp to say.
And down on us come the neighbors, a couple of dozen strong,
And lent their kindest service for to help the thing along.

And there has been days together—and many a weary week—
We was both of us cross and spunky, and both too proud to speak,
And I have been thinkin' and thinkin', the whole of the winter and fall,
If I can't live kind with a woman why, then I won't at all.

And so I've talked with Betsey, and Betsey has talked with me;
And we have agreed together that we can't never agree;
And what is hers shall be hers, and what is mine shall be mine;
And I'll put it in the agreement and take it to her to sign.

Write on the paper, lawyer—the very first paragraph—
Of all the farm and live-stock that she shall have her half.
For she has helped to earn it, through many a weary day,
And it's nothin' more than justice that Betsey has her pay.

Give her the house and homestead a man can thrive and roam;
But women are skeery critters unless they have a home,
And I have always determined, and never failed to say,
That Betsey never should want a home, if I was taken away,

There is a little hard money that's drawin' tolerable pay;
A couple of hundred dollars laid by for a rainy day;
Safe in the hands of good men, and easy to get at;
Put in another clause, there and give her half of that.

Yes, I see you smile, sir, at my givin' her so much;
Yes, divorce is cheap, sir, but I take no stock in such.
True and fair I married her, when she was blithe and young;
And Betsey was always good to me, except with her tongue.

Once, when I was young as you, and not so smart, perhaps,
For me she mittened a lawyer, and several other chaps:
And all of 'em was flustered and fairly taken down,
And I for a time was counted the luckiest man in town.

Once when I had a fever—I won't forget it soon—I was hot as a basted turkey and crazy as a loon—
Never an hour went by me when she was out of sight;
She nursed me true and tender and stuck to me day and night.

And if ever a house was tidy, and ever a kitchen clean,
Her house and kitchen was tidy as any I ever seen.
And I don't complain of Betsey nor any of her acts,
Exceptin' when we've quarreled and told each other facts.

So draw up the paper, lawyer; and I'll go home to night,
And read the agreement to her and see if it's all right;
And then in the mornin' I'll sell to a tradin' man I know—
And kiss the child that was left to us and out in the world I'll go.

And one thing put in the paper, that first to me didn't occur;
That when I'm dead at last she'll bring me back to her;
And lay me under the maples I planted years ago,
When she and I were happy before we quarreled so.

And when she dies I wish that she would be laid by me;
And lyin' together in silence, perhaps we will agree;
And if ever we meet in heaven, I wouldn't think it queer
If we loved each other the better because we have quarreled here.

The Last Words of the Dying.

These are eagerly sought after, and enshrined in memory's bosom by loved ones. The hero, standing upon the field of battle, amid the booming of cannon and the rattle of musketry, is stricken down, and dying, he utters some sentiment which tells the living he fought bravely, and died loving his country. His words, thus uttered, are chanted in his praise, pass immediately into history, and are preserved to be handed down from generation to generation.

The mother bending over the couch of the dying child, eagerly listens for its last words. As the heart's pulsations grow feeble, the respiration becomes more laborious, she silently listens. Now the pale lips are parted and she draws nearer, until her ear comes in contact with the faint murmur of the dying one. Oh, how she treasures in her pure heart that last "Good-bye," that last token of going home to heaven!

The husband, through weary days and nights, has been watching at the bedside of his darling wife, until now the dread moment approaches when she will be wafted beyond the river of death. Under no pretense will he now leave her, and why? Ah! he is waiting and listening for the last whisper. As she speaks, her words echo and re-echo through the chamber of his soul, and remain there throughout the mystic future.

As a young lady reads over the list of the slain in battle, and her weeping eyes rest upon the name of her lover, almost her first thought is, "Did he leave me a dying message?"

The sweet sister of a shipwrecked brother impatiently awaits the arrival of some one rescued from the wreck, to learn if her brother, as he was swept beneath the dark waves, sent her a dying word.

Yes, dying words are those most sought after and cherished by the human heart. Amid all the cares and disappointments that may surround us in life, we never can forget the last faint whisperings of the dying.

FALES SHAME.—The false shame which fears to be detected in honest manual employment; which shrinks from exposing to the world a necessary and honorable economy; which blushes more deeply for a shabby attire than for a mean action, and which dreads the sneers of the world more than the upbraidings of conscience—this false shame will prove the ruin of every one who suffers it to influence his thoughts and life.

SORROWS AND JOYS.—That every day has its pains and sorrows is universally experienced, and almost universally confessed; but let us not attend only to mournful truths. If we look impartially about us, we shall find that every day has likewise its pleasures and joys.

ECONOMY.—Sound economy is a sound understanding brought into action; it is calculation realized; it is the doctrine of proportion reduced to practice; it is foreseeing contingencies, and providing against them; it is expecting contingencies, and being prepared for them.

The Pulpit.

So long as church pews contain hearers of culture, no question but sermons should contain the beauties of rhetoric as well as the power of logic. So long as men are susceptible to oratory the pulpit should be invested with its magnetism. The great power of the pulpit, it is true, its primary and imperative agency, is heart power. Its leading inspiration is that of principle and a Christian life. But all this has not the tendency to invalidate our first assertions. Their truth is rather demonstrated by it. For the heart has many an avenue of influence, and prominent among them are the intellectual powers. How long will moral reformers and spiritual grumblers persist in decrying literary culture and the art of eloquence as a pulpit force? Why forget that though a boor may be infinitely superior to a polished villain, his influence for good upon his fellows would be immensely enhanced by a culture of mind and a grace of manner? They will not deny this.

But once say to them that the clergy would wield a far higher and wider range of spiritual influence by greater gifts and display of the æsthetic in the pulpit, and they lift their hands in pious horror, only to exclaim, "Sacrilege! sacrilege!" He best can minister to the highest interests of his fellows who can weld body, mind, and heart in harmonic solidity, and then send home the unified weapon. Why strip him of any powers which God has invested him with? Why divest him of the aids that the culture of these powers has conferred? We recommend to the churches no divine whose only, or whose highest, excellence is his graceful eloquence. Oh, no! But his eloquence is by no means the reason that we do not. Had he the true inspiration of Christianity this other gift would be invaluable. The boor above alluded to is not better than his competitor, the villain, because of his clownishness. The villain is not a whit the worse for his polish; but give that boor the culture of the scholar, the grace of the rhetorician and the speaker, and if he be a divine you cannot place too high an estimate upon his augmented force in the pulpit.

To those, then, who claim that the main power of the pulpit should rest on its Christian spirit, no possible issue could be taken. Their position is impregnable. But to those who, with one ecclesiastical flourish, wave out of the pulpit all literary and oratorical endowments, no argument, perhaps, could be conclusive. Suffice it to say, that they only discard that which, in education, in society, and in all the more common forces of civilization, they approve, welcome, and embrace.

Will an audience pay homage to the preacher rather than to his truths? Grant it, though the true orator generally impresses, not himself, but his ideas upon his audience. But it should be remembered that a clergyman without these graces is very apt to repel, sometimes to disgust, his hearers. A man with a bald and inelegant style may hit the illiterate and less polished of his congregation, but fails with many others. But the man of culture and grace will hit both classes. For such a man will be as simple and direct in statement as he is ornate and fluent. Yes, let our divines be elegant and graceful, if elegance means literary power, and grace means the magnetism of delivery. The Evangelists were rude and illiterate; but their spiritual force and intensity lay not in that rudeness and ignorance. St. Paul was the representative disciple of erudition and brilliant scholarly attainment. To this he owed much of his power among the learned of his race. Among them he was more successful than his equally devoted brother-apostle, St. Peter. All pulpit men may not possess the charm of delivery, but they may improve their style. Don't bring the pulpit to the rostrum, but push the rostrum into the pulpit.—Philadelphia Press.

LABOR.—It has been observed by writers of morality, that in order to quicken human industry, Providence has so contrived it that our daily food is not to be procured without much pain and labor. The chase of birds and beasts, the several arts of fishing, with all the different kinds of agriculture, are necessary sums of business, and give employment to the greater part of mankind. If we look into the brute creation, we find all its individuals engaged in a painful and laborious way of life, to procure the necessary subsistence for themselves, or those that grow up under them—the preservation of their being is the whole business of it. An idle man is, therefore, a kind of monster in the creation. All nature is busy about him; every animal he sees reproaches him.

MICROSCOPIC WONDERS.—The microscope makes fearful revelations. A physician announced that he has discovered numerous infusoriæ in the air expired by children suffering with whooping-cough They are about one-thousandth of an inch in length, and of a large slender, cylindrical form. It is to be hoped that the microscope, or something else, will also suggest some method of destroying the "cylindrical" creatures.

Truth, like the sun, submits to be obscured, but only for a time.

A GOOD HIT.

The Havre (Md.) Republican gives the new pictorial of the Free-Trade League the following first-class notice:

REOPLES' PICTORIAL TAX-PAYER.—We are in receipt of a newspaper bearing the above title, the organ of the "American Free-Trade League" so called, but really, anti-American in its origin, objects, and interests. It says "the League is composed of lawyers, manufacturers, bankers, merchants, clergymen, literary men, and men of leisure, mostly resident of New York City," and it might have truthfully added, that the rest of these manufacturers, bankers, clergymen, literary men, and men of leisure, reside at their English homes across the water.

This pirate that proposes to prey on the industries of the American people, and issued in the interest of British capitalists, and paid for and supported by British gold, wears an air of English aristocracy about it, unsuited to the workingmen and institutions of America; even the advertisements appearing in it, betray its character; they are chiefly made up of London iron mongers, importers, bankers, insurance brokers, bookpublishers, and their New York and Boston branches and agents.

Self-preservation is the first law of nature. Protection to Home Industry has made us a great and powerful people and it is the patriotic duty of every true American, who desires the prosperity of his country and the welfare and happiness of the people, to preserve our national Tariff defences intact; for although we have mineral wealth and all the constituent elements to make us a great manufacturing people, it is fully conceded that we cannot pay the wages that American freemen should have, and successfully compete with the foreign manufacture.

With Free Trade, it is just as plain as the nose on a man's face, that one of two things must be done; we must either reduce the American mechanic to the level of the European pauper, or stop our furnaces, founderies, mills, factories, spindles, and looms, and transfer our workshops, home industries and all our manufacturing interests to Birmingham and Glasgow.

"Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty," and if we, through our own supineness, allow this wily enemy to place us under the heel of the moneyed monopolists and manufacturing nabobs of Europe, God help the laboring classes of this country; the rich can take care of themselves.

The Old-Fashioned Mother.

Thank God some of us had an old-fashioned mother. Not a woman of the period, enameled and painted, with her great chignon, her cuffs and bustles, whose white jeweled hand never felt the clasp of baby fingers; but a dear, old-fashioned, sweet-voiced mother, with eyes in whose clear depths the love-light shone, and brown hair just threaded with silver, lying smooth upon her faded cheek.—Those dear hands, worn with toil, gently guided our tottering steps in childhood, and smoothed our pillow in sickness; even reaching out to us in yearning tenderness when her sweet spirit was baptized in the pearly spray of the river.—Blessed is the memory of an old-fasioned mother. It floats to us now like the beautiful perfume from woodland blossoms. The music of other voices may be lost, but the entrancing memory of her echoes to our soul forever. Other faces may fade away and be forgotten, but her's will shine on until the light from Heaven's portals will glorify our own. When the fitful pauses of busy feet wander back to the old homestead, and crossing the well-worn threshhold, stand once more in the low, quaint room, so hallowed by her presence, how the feeling of childish innocence and dependence come over us, and we kneel down in the molten sunshine streaming in the western window, just where long years ago we knelt by our mother's knee, lisping "Our Father."—How many times, when the temptor lures us on, has the memory of those sacred hours, that mother's words, her faith and her prayers, saved us from plunging into the deep abyss of sin. Years have filled great drifts between her and us, but they have not hidden from our sight the glory of her pure, unselfish love.

Silk.

We are accustomed to regard silk exclusively as an article of dress; nevertheless, it possesses peculiar medical properties, as was long ago ascertained. In Pomet's history of drugs, it is stated silk was, in his time, used as medicine, by reducing the pure part of the cocoon into a powder. Silk thus prepared has, as affirmed, "the virtues of cleansing the blood, making the spirits brisk and heart pleasant." Neumann found that but few materials afforded an equal quantity of volatile alkali. Tournefort obtained from fifteen ounces of silk two drachms of volatile salt; this, which was called the spirit of raw silk, when rectified with some essential oil, was the medicine formerly celebrated under the name of "Guttæ Anglicanæ," or English drops. The volatile alkali obtained from silk was then supposed to be of a different nature from that contained in any other substance, and it consequently was held to possess virtues peculiar to itself.

CHARITY IS NOT SELFISHNESS.—It is not charity to give a penny to the street mendicant or whom nothing is known while we haggle with a poor man, out of employment, for a miserable dime. It is not charity to beat down a poor seamstress to starvation price; to let her sit in her wet clothes sewing all day; to deduct from her pitiful remuneration if the storm delays her prompt arrival. It is not charity to take a poor relative into your family and make her a slave of all your whims, and taunt her continually with her dependent situation. It is not charity to turn a man who is out of work into the streets with his family, because he cannot pay his rent. It is not charity to exact the utmost farthing from the widow and orphan. It is not charity to give with a supercilious air and patronage, as if God had made you, the rich man, of different blood from the shivering recipient, whose only crime is that he is poor. It is not charity to be an extortioner—not though you bestow your alms by the thousands.

Gleanings.

The rose has its thorn, the diamond its speck, and the best man has failing.

A man without desire and without want is without invention and without reason.

Where gold and silver dwell in the heart, faith, hope, and love are out of doors.

California will be able to export fully 12,000,000 centals of wheat of the coming crop.

Never despise humble services—when large ships run aground, little boats may pull them off.

That conduct sometimes seems ridiculous, the secret reasons of which may perhaps be wise and solid.

Spare that you may spend; fast that you may feast; labor that you may live; and run that you may rest.

"Cultivate not only the corn-fields of the mind, but the pleasure grounds also," was a motto of Dr. Whateley's.

Nothing can tend more to the health of the body than the tranquility of the mind and the due regulation of the passions.

Death, to a good man, is the coming of the heart to its blossoming time. Do we call it dying when the bud bursts into flower?

Poverty and pride are inconvenient companions; but when idleness unites with them, the depth of wretchedness is attained.

Keep out of debt, out of quarrels, out of damp clothes, out of reach of liquors, and out of doors all you can in good weather.

The more a man knows, the less he is apt to talk; discretion allays his heat, and makes him coolly deliberate what and where to speak.

We have seen a prudent, industrious wife reprieve the fortunes of a family, when her husband pulled at the other end of the rope.

Mankind has been learning for six thousand years, and yet how few have learned that their fellow-beings are as good as themselves.

There is a voice from the tomb sweeter than song; there is a remembrance of the dead to which we turn, even from the charm of the living.

At Vicksburg the frequenters of saloons are not asked what beverage they prefer, but you are invited to "nominate your family disturbance."

Honest industry is always rewarded. No young man need complain of being kept poor, if he rolls up his sleeves and goes cheerfully to work.

Those who reprove us are more valuable friends than those who flatter us.—True progress requires either candid friends or severe enemies.

What a world of gossip would be prevented if it was only remembered that a person who tells you of the faults of others, intends to tell others of your faults.

There is too much of the cold silence of ingratitude amongst us. May not many of our barren seasons be ascribed to the fact that we did not thank God for fruitful ones?

"Wife, I don't see how they send letters on them 'ere wires without tearin' 'em all to bits." "They don't send the paper," said the wife, "they just send the writing in a fluid style."

He that hath given up all things, and not himself, hath forsaken nothing. He that sets not his heart on what he possesses forsaketh all things, though he keep his possessions.

Woe will ever follow those who allow power or fashion, or the opinions of others, or anything else human, to interfere with personal responsibility, or to render them unfaithful to their own convictions.

The ambition of a man of parts is very often disappointed for the want of some common quality, by the assistance of which men with very moderate abilities are capable of making a great figure.

To tell your own secrets is generally folly, but that folly is without guilt; to communicate those with which you are intrusted is always treachery and treachery for the most part combined with folly.

Trust not too exclusively to misgivings any more than to hopes; fact is the only real ground for just expectation. Abide then by reasoning from facts, and always let your motto be: Hope for the best, but be prepared for the worst.

"If the stars," writes Emerson, "should appear only one night in a thousand years, how would men believe and adore, and preserve for many generations the remembrance of the city of God which had been shown. But every night came out these preachers of beauty, and light the universe with their admonishing smile."

GREAT RUSH TO STERNBERG'S.

Sung to the tune of Yankee Doodle.

The Great Pacific Railroad's laid,
From ocean unto ocean,
And now complete connections made,
An enterprising notion.

The mighty work at last is done,
So speedy and brisk, oh!
And now in ten days we can run
From here to San Francisco.

No more we take the ancient route,
The stage, a horrid slow thing;
It banged the passengers about
And wore out all their clothing.

CHORUS, for the end of each verse:

The Great Pacific Railroad laid,
From ocean unto ocean,
And we buy clothes from A. STERNBERG,
A most delightful notion.

Through passengers by the Pacific Railroad will call at the store of A. Sternberg, before starting, and provide themselves with a complete outfit of Spring and Summer clothing, the very best assortment of which will always be found at A. Sternberg's Store.

People who travel by other routes, and also peoplewho, instead of travelling by any route at all, prefer to stay at home, can find the most superior and seasonable garments, for every occasion, of every variety, and at the lowest price.

SOMETHING NEW
UNDER THE SUN.
A New Era In Medicine.

☞ Let the Suffering and Diseased read the following.

☞ Let all who can believe facts, and can have faith in evidence, read the following.

Know all men by these presents. That, on this, the Twentieth day of June, in the year of our Lord, One Thousand Eight Hundred and Sixty-six, personally came Joseph Haydrick to me known as such, and being duly sworn deposed as follows: "That he is the sole general agent for the United States and dependencies thereof for preparations or medicines known as Dr. Maggiel's Pills and Salve, and that the following certificates are verbatim copies to the best of his knowledge and belief.

JAMES SMEITRE, Notary Public,
[L. S.] 14 Wall St. New York.

June 1st, 1866.

DR. MAGGIEL:—I take my pen to write you of my great relief and that the awful pain in my side has left me at last—thanks to your medicine. Oh, Doctor, how thankful I am that I can get some sleep. I can never write it enough. I thank you again and again, and am sure that you are really the friend of all sufferers. I could not help writing to you, and hope you will not take it amiss. WILSON HARVEY,
NEW YORK, April 7, 1866. 27 Pitt Street.

The following is an interesting case of a man employed in an Iron Foundry, who, in pouring melted iron into a flask that was damp and wet, caused an explosion. The melted iron was thrown around and on him in a perfect shower, and he was burnt dreadfully. The following certificate was given to me, by him, about eight weeks after the accident:

NEW YORK, Jan. 11, 1866.

My name is Jacob Hardy; I am an Iron Founder. I was badly burnt by hot iron in November last; my burns healed, but I had a running sore on my leg that would not heal: I tried Maggiel's Salve and it cured me in a few weeks. This is all true and anybody can see me at Jackson's Iron Works, 2d Avenue.

J. HARDY, 119 Greeck St.

EXTRACTS FROM VARIOUS LETTERS.

"I had no appetite; Maggiel's Pills gave me a hearty one."

"Your Pills are marvellous."

"I send for another box, and keep them in the house."

"Dr. Maggiel has cured my headache that was chronic."

"I gave half of one of your Pills to my babe for cholera morbus. The dear little thing got well in a day."

"My nausea of a morning is now cured."

"Your box of Maggiel's Salve cured me of noises in the head. I rubbed some of your Salve behind my ears, and the noise has left."

"Send me two boxes, I want one for a poor family."

"I enclose a dollar, your price is 25 cents, but the medicine to me is worth a dollar."

"Send me five boxes of your Pills."

"Let me have three boxes of your Pills by return mail."

I Have over 200 such Testimonials as these, but want of space compels me to conclude.

FOR CUTANEOUS DISORDERS,

And all erruptions of the skin, the SALVE is most invaluable. It does not heal externally alone, but penetrates with the most searching effects to the very root of the evil.

DEMOCRATIC CONGRESSIONAL ADDRESS.

"At a time when labor is depressed, and every material interest is palsied by oppressive taxation, the public offices have been multiplied beyond all precedent, to serve as instruments in the perpetuation of power. Partisanship is the only test applied to the distribution of this vast patronage. Honesty, fitness, and moral worth are openly discarded in favor of truckling submission and dishonorable compliance. Hence, enormous defalcations and widespread corruption have followed as the natural consequences of this pernicious system."

General Grant has been President of the United States a little over two years, and in that time the public debt has been diminished to the extent of nearly $222,000,000, or nine millions dollars per month. Now, when we take into consideration the vast machinery of the Government, and the enormous expense of running it, under the most stringent rules of economy, it would certainly not be considered bad financiering if we could make both ends meet. But if public offices have been multiplied beyond all precedent," how is it that, after meeting this accumulated expense, we are enabled to treat the "rainy day" to the tune of nine millions per month? Democratic Congressmen say by "oppressive taxation." But the records of Congress say that the "oppressive taxation" was reduced last year some eighty millions. How then can reduced taxation and unprecedented multiplication of public offices be reconciled with the fact that every succeeding month in the twelve, finds the debt reduced in a greater corresponding ratio.

Such silly and stupid emanations of Democratic tactics would not be received without criticism in the lowest schools for scandal. They lack the only ingredient which can ever make a lie tolerable the semblance of truth. Of such stuff is the whole paragraph quoted, and of such paragraphs, is the whole late Democratic address made up. It feeds alone the prejudices of the ignorant, the only available and controling element of Democratic success.

ANOTHER CRUM FROM THE DEM. ADDRESS.

"Everything that malicious ingenuity could suggest has been done to irritate the people of the Middle and Southern States. Gross and exaggerated charges of disorder and violence owe their origin to the mischievous minds of potential managers in the Senate and House of Representatives, to which the Executive has, we regret to say, lent his aid, and thus helped to inflame the popular feeling. In all this course of hostile legislation and harsh resentment, no word of conciliation, of kind encouragement, or fraternal fellowship has ever been spoken by the President, or by Congress, to the people of the Southern States. They have been addressed only in the language of proscription."

The above extract is from the address of the Democratic Members of Congress, but it will not be presumed for a moment that there was a Member on the Committee or in the Caucus, who believed one word in the paragraph. It is of a piece with those false and meaningless diatribes of the opposition which have found their way into the public prints in every campaign since the spring of 1861. Up to that time the Republicans of the North were arrant cowards, and one Southerner was equal to five of them in any given emergency. But now the times are sadly out of joint, and the despised Nazarenes of ten years ago, are the potential authors and abettors of a harsh and relentless proscription.

If there is any truth in the paragraph quoted, it might, with some reason, be justified on the ground of ample provocation, but it is a base and baseless fabrication without even the semblance of truth, and so clearly proven as such, in the light of concurrent fact, that it needs no denial. In the light of impartial history, when all the sufferings and sorrows, heroism and self-denials, defeats and victories of the war are faithfully portrayed, and the great results which were its immediate or remote offsprings shall receive their full measure of glory, no page will be oftener read, nor less often applauded than that which will recount the generosity of a victorious people over a malignant fallen foe.

The most damaging commentary upon all such false and flippant statements, as above quoted, is in the fact that while a properly constituted committee of U. S. Senators has been able to fill a volume with the history of crimes, the most malignant, perpetrated by these Southern outlaws, in one State alone, it has not been able to furnish an instance where the Government has laid a heavy hand upon a single perpetrator of the multiplied volumes of crime against law and order, against the peace of society and life itself throughout the entire South.

TO THE PEOPLE OF THE UNITED STATES.

WASHINGTON D. C., May 3rd, 1871.

Our presence in Washington, that once goodly city, where in the balmy days of yore, the legislation of the country was controlled by the patriotic Davis, the heroic Brooks, the saintly Wigfall, the chivalrous Toombs, the lordly Hammond, and those perfect models of honesty. Breckenridge, Floyd, Benjamin, and Toucey, have enabled us to become fully acquainted with the actions and designs of those who control the Radical party, and we feel called upon to utter a few wails against the alarming strides they have made towards the utter annihilation of the principles and practice of the Democratic party.

WAIL 1. The time and attention of the Radical leaders have been wholly directed to devising such legislation as best protects the rights of all the citizens and such as tends to develop the resources of the country—this is contrary to all precedent. WAIL!

WAIL 2. The President of the United States has been formally announced as a candinate for re election—with every prospect of an overwhelmig majority over any opponent we may nominate—and this too, when he not only proclaims in his inaugural address, that he had no policy of his own which he was determined to carry out at every hazard, but the history of his adminstration clearly establishes the fact that he endeavors, 1st, to ascertain the wishes of the people and 2nd, to regulate the affairs of the country so as to carry out those wishes such a course is not only without precedent during the entire period we controlled the affairs of the country, but it is clearly a violation of the constitution. WAIL! OH WAIL!!

WAIL 3. The Legislation, to which we refer was decreed and shaped in caucus, and wisdom prevailing, the measures were adopted by overwhelming majorities—this has been our sad experience during the past few years. WAIL!

WAIL 4. At a time when labor is depressed and every material interest is palsied by taxation necessary to pay a public debt, created by the Democracy; honesty, fitness and moral worth, are openly considered in favor of applicants for office, thus completely barring the Democracy from all places of honor, trust or profit—this is a flagrant violation of the constitution. WAIL IN UNISON!

WAIL 5. By the official report of the Secretary of the Treasury, it appears that after deduction of all paper credits many millions of dollars remain due from ex-collectors of the Internal Revenue (these collectors were all goodly Democrats appointed by the late incumbent of the Presidential chair, but who were summarily, ejected by the present executive, as being wholly unfit for thir places) and that all proper diligence has been used to enforce collection—this is a violation of the constiution. WAIL!

WAIL 6. Reform in the revenue and fiscal systems which all experience demonstrates to be necessary to a frugal administration of the Government have been well considered and by a resolution of the Senate, you are assured the tariff and excise systems, will be so perfected that a sufficient revenue will be secured without perceptible inconvenience to the people. WAIL!

WAIL 7. Shipbuilding and the carrying trade, so nearly destroyed by the shots and firebrands of good Democrats, now show signs of returning life. WAIL!

WAIL 8. Our agriculturalists pay taxes on what they purchase for consumption, but as their business is that of producing, they scarcely know they pay any taxes at all. WAIL!

WAIL 9. Nearly 200,000,000 acres of public lands entirely valueless to the Government, and also to the settler, because located so far from means of transportation, have been given to corporations, who, in consideration therefor, have opened up the mountain and the plain, to the miner, the agriculturalist and the artisan, affording rapid and cheap transportation for the products of the country, thus rendering valuable and available for settlement that which was inaccessible and worthless, and from reports of the western portion, it appears civilization, thrift, industry, and intelligence are rapidly expanding over the once waste places. WAIL!

WAIL 10. If the career of these mad legislators be not speedily checked in their ruinous course, the masses of the people will hold elevated ideas of a good Government, and the Democracy need never expect to wield power again.—WAIL!

WAIL 11. Under pretence of passing laws to enforce the constitution, Congress has provided official machinery by which the liberties of the Democracy are to ride the country masked, and to whip, shoot, quarter and hang all holding sentiments repugnant to themselves, are sorely menaced. WAIL!—WAIL!

WAIL 12. Under the last enforcement bill, the Executive may, in his discretion, thrust aside the government of any State, and suspend the writ of habeas corpus, whenever that government shall encourage armed bands of Democrats in violating the laws of the land; or whenever the purpose for which the government is created shall have been perverted—Nothing is now left that can be called Democratic liberty; all is changed to conformity to law. WAIL!

WAIL 13. Our hopes for redress should be in the calm good sense, the sober second thought of the people; but that will only make matters worse, as the experience of the past few years demonstrates the fact, that the people read and think for themselves, and no longer follow the beck and nod of a noble few, but have the strange idea that a good government is one that seeks to protect the citizen in his rights under the constitution and encourages industry and education, and assists in developing the natural wealth of the country, and welcomes to our shores the oppressed of all nations. WAIL!

WAIL 14. Everything that magnanimity could suggest having been contemptously rejected by the noble Democracy of the South, the strong arm of the law now intervenes to compel the recognition of the rights of all citizens.—WAIL!

WAIL 15. We earnestly entreat our fellow citizens in all parts of the Union to spare no effort to maintain peace and order, and to preserve kindly relations with all men, until we can obtain once more, control of the reins of Government. More than thirty members of the present Congress, were in arms against the republic during the so called rebellion, and some of them held places high in command—and if we can now secure additional representation by preserving peace and good order for a time then we can speedily turn the entire current of legislation and return to the happy days of yore, and the mudsills can again be placed in their proper sphere. If the people will not be hoodwinked, all is lost. THEN WAIL!

WAIL 16. In the five years of peace following the war, the Radicals have expended $1,200,000,000. It is trifling with the intelligence of the people for the Radical leaders to pretend that this vast sum has been honestly expended. Hundreds of millions of it were wantonly squandered in liquidating the bounties and pay due discharged soldiers who had been engaged in discharging bullets at the patriotic Democracy of the South. Surely this is unconstitutional. WAIL!

WAIL 17. The expenditures of the Government for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1861, were only $61,000,000 while for precisely the same purpose, Civil list Army, Navy, Pensions and Indians $164,000,000 were expended in the year ending June 30, 1870, being a difference of $102,000,000, and of this difference by far the larger portion is paid to pensioners caused by Democratic bullets, and the remainder is paid to an Army and Navy more than double the size of the regular Army and Navy of June, 1860, and this increased Army and Navy is employed in menacing Democratic liberty in the South, and scarcely any soldiers are stationed in the Radical States. WAIL! WAIL!

WAIL 18. To protect and perpetuate the rights which every freeman cherishes and throw around the humblest citizen, wherever he may be the protecting aegis of the safeguards of personal liberties, has been the aim of Republican legislation, thus undermining the strongholds of the Democracy of the country; if these things are allowed to go on at this rate, our days are numbered, and even the place we now occupy, will soon be occupied by others. Then let us make one last grand effort to retrieve our fallen liberties, and we may yet flourish the lash, tar and feather, shoot and hang those repugnant to us as in the happy days of yore.

The original address is signed by the Democratic delegation in Congress.

THE DUTY OF REPUBLICANS.

The Newark Courier says, "one thing above all others should be borne in mind by the Republicans of the country, and that is the solemn duty of the party to retain the National Government in their own hands. That the Republican party can carry the country over in safety nobody, not even the most obtuse, for a moment, doubts; but the Democratic party would ruin everything at the very first plunge it made. Indeed, it has been accused of such felonious intention, and has not protested its innocence by so much as "nay!" We cannot and will not trust it. It was balky of old, and has learned many new tricks instead of forgetting its former shying, kicking and cavorting accomplishments. Therefore, the venerable animal will not suit. His age is against him, and he is blind of both eyes, spavined, windbroken, ring-boned, lame, a stump sucker, has the poll-evil, and bears the damaging scars of those innumerable battles which have won for him the titles of the Old War Horse. He has seen his best days; no more to wars will he go. A grateful people have turned him out on the common, and there let him graze in peace till he meets a tranquil death from a sheer old age. He "lags superfluous;" but while he is harmless let him lag. The young colt, Republican, is now the Dexter of the course, and its time must not be beat. It is essentially important, therefore, that the Republican party should keep well together and strengthen its numbers from all available sources by trustworthy recruits. It must prepare as Bismarck prepared, for the future in a time of peace. It may lose a few skirmishes, but no matter, if it only has its forces well in hand for the great, decisive battle in 1872. That should be the objective point of all Republicans. The minor issues that may arise in the interval will be merely personal and local, of no concern to the great National Party, and should not be allowed for a moment to lead the party astray from the direct path of duty—which is also the path of success. Whatever differences the party may have to settle within itself, there should be no divided opinion on the one great work to be achieved—that of securing a continuance of good government to the country which it has saved—and the thoughts and energies of all true Republicans should be bent on carrying the next Presidential election. Unity and endeavor are all that is required to bring about this most important result."

ALL FOR LOVE.

A YOUNG LADY LOVES A MARRIED MAN, AND DROWNS HERSELF FROM DISAPPOINTMENT.

Miss Susan Alman, a resident or Marengo, Iowa, drowned herself at that place a few days ago. It now appears that she had been deceived and deserted by a merchant named Morton. When she learned that this man, who has been visiting and corresponding with her for two years, was a married man, she stated to the landlady that she should drown herself, and left the house. She was followed and discovered sitting on the river bank, a mile below town, in the act of taking off her gaiters. As soon as she saw she was discovered she jumped to her feet, gave one wild scream and plunged into the dark turbid waters and sunk. Her last letter to Morton was as follows:

To Samuel Morton: I hope that God will curse you all the day of your life, for your falseness and the injury you have brought upon me. I hope that you may never live to know another moment's peace in this world. If you had any honor or one spark of humanity for me, you never would leave me as you have. I am going to the river to drown myself as soon as I leave this note with some one for you. You will not go through life unpunished.

SUE.

The affair created the wildest excitement, and in the evening a large crowd gathered before the hotel where Morton was stopping, and nothing but the intervention of the poor girl's father saved the villain from being lynched.

These Pills are the most delightfully pleasant purgative, superseding castor oil, salts, magnesia etc. There is nothing more acceptable to the stomach. They give tone, and cause neither nausea nor griping pains. They are composed of the finest ingredients. After a few days' use of them, such an invigoration of the entire system takes place as to appear miraculous to the weak and enervated, whether arising from imprudence or disease. H T. Helmbold's Compound Fluid extract Catawba Grape Pills are not sugar-coated, from the fact that sugar-coated Pills do not dissolve, but pass through the stomach without dissolving, consequently do not produce the desired effect. THE CATAWBA GRAPE PILLS, being pleasant in taste and odor, do not necessitate their being sugar-coated. PRICE FIFTY CENTS PER BOX.

The Great Medical Discovery!

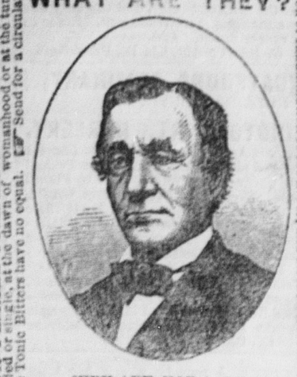
Dr. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA

VINEGAR BITTERS.

Hundreds of Thousands

Bear testimony to their Wonderful Curative Effects.

WHAT ARE THEY?



FOR FEMALE COMPLAINTS, whether in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood or at the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters have no equal. ☞ Send for a circular.

Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the regions of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offsprings of Dyspepsia.

They invigorate the Stomach and stimulate the torpid liver and bowels, which render them of unequalled efficacy in cleansing the blood of all impurities, and imparting new life and vigor to the whole system.

FOR SKIN DISEASES, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ring-Worms, Scald-Head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin, of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters. One bottle in such cases will convince the most incredulous of their curative effects.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul, and your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure and the health of the system will follow.

PIN, TAPE and other WORMS, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. For full directions, read carefully the circular around each bottle.

Luck.

The man who marries the prettiest girl of the place, is said to be a "lucky fellow," and so of him who draws the highest prize in a lottery, or by some "fortunate" turn in affairs, clears the gulf between want and wealth in an hour. And yet the histories of all times tell us that with a terrible uniformity and uncertainty the man who becomes suddenly possessed of unearned millions dies in misery.

Within five years a well-to-do-farmer drew a quarter of a million of dollars in a prize lottery. The whole country envied him his luck; but he has since died from a style of living induced by his good fortune, and his only son has turned out a drunkard.

The man whose first bet on the race-course, whose first deal at the card-table, whose first risk at faro, whose maiden lottery ticket, brings money largely into his pockets, is a ruined man at the very instant the world pronounces him "lucky. Any man, especially any young man, who starts out in life with the conviction that money can be better made than by earning it, is a lost man—lost already to society, lost to his family, lost to himself.

An alarmingly large number of the sons of the rich men of our cities are at this moment helpless drunkards.—Young men are they, many of them of education, of manly qualities, of generous natures, honorable and high-minded; but the demon of drink has taken such possession of them that a father's breaking heart, a mother's tears and sisters agony avail not to draw them from their deep damnation. Elegant liesure was their ruin.

The best way to save a child from ruin is to bring him up to "help father." Make children feel that they must do something to support the family, to help along; then two feelings arise which are their salvation—those of affection and pride; for we naturally love those whom we help, or those whom we struggle together with for a desired object, and nothing so improves a child as to make him feel that he is of some consequence, that he can do something, and that what he does is appreciated.

Silent Influence.

It is the babbling spring that flows gently, the little rivulet which runs along, day and night, by the farm house, that is useful, rather than the swollen flood or the roaring cataract. Niagara excites our amazement and wonder, and we stand amazed at the power and greatness of God there, as he "pours it from his hollow hand." But one Niagara is enough for the continent, or the world—while the same world requires thousands and tens of thousands of silver fountains and gentle flowing rivulets, that water every farm and meadow and every garden, and that shall flow night and day with their gentle, quiet beauty.—So with the acts of our lives. It is not by great deeds like those of the martyrs that good is done: it is by daily and quiet virtues of life—the Christian temper, the meek forbearance, the spirit of forgiveness, in the husband, in the wife, the father, the mother, the brother, the sister, the friend, the neighbor, that good is to be done.

Self-Possession.

Archbishop Whately, when a very young man, was much troubled with bashfulness. He determined to make a great effort to throw it off, and by a persistent struggle succeeded. Speaking of it later in life, he says: "I was acting more wisely than I thought at the time, for I had not then that clear view of the subject that I now have, and consequently I succeeded beyond my expectations, for I not only got rid of the personal sufferings of shyness, but also of most of those faults of manners which consciousness produces, and acquires at once an easy and natural manner, careless, indeed, in the extreme, from its originating in a stern defiance of opinion which I had convinced myself must ever be against me; rough and awkward, for smoothness and grace are quite out of my way, and of course tutorilly pedantic; but unconscious, and therefore giving expression to that good will toward men I really feel; and these, I believe, are the main points."

HAPPINESS.—True happiness does not imply satisfaction, but continual development. The student loves knowledge for its own sake, and can never cease acquiring; and when men love goodness and truth for their own sake, they shall have the untold happiness, not only of satisfying the ever-unfolding needs of their own natures, but of ministering also to those of others who come within the sphere of their influence.

All really great and honest men may be said to live three lives; there is one life which is seen and accepted by the world at large, a man's outward life; there is a second life which is seen by a man's most intimate friends, his household life; and there is a third life, seen only by the man himself and by Him who searcheth the heart, which may be called the inner or heavenly life.

DECORATION DAY.—Tuesday the 30th day of the present month is the time set apart for the decoration of the graves of our brave soldiers who gave their lives to their country during the late war. As there is no military organization in this place this solemn duty has been assigned to our Public Schools, and arrangements are being made by them to perform the ceremonies in an appropriate manner.

OPEN AIR SERVICES.—The open air services held at the corner of Allegheny and High streets on Sabbath evening last, under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. were largely attended by our citizens. The services were conducted by Rev. W. T. Wylie who delivered a very appropriate address. These meetings we understand will be held during the summer and we hope each and every citizen will encourage them.

SABBATH SCHOOL CONVENTION.—The third annual convention of the Centre County Sabbath School Association will be held in the Court House in Bellefonte on the 6th, 7th and 8th of June next.—The association will be opened on Tuesday morning by a sermon to be preached by Rev. WATCHMAN'S BENEFIT.—Some time ago the Watchman noting the reformation that had taken place in the jail, assumed that it was the realization of the ful fillment of the prophetic visions of its editor, and owing to the fact, that they, the prisoners, had been reading the Watchman and the Bible. It is the first time we ever heard of the Watchman and the Bible combined ever working a reformation, as the pernicious teachings of the former tends to neutralize the religious teachings of the latter. We think without the study of the latter there would have been no reformation, as we have yet to see or hear of the first instance of the teachings of the Watchman leading to any result of that kind. The Watchman office alone presents a sad commentary on the religious teachings of that sheet. We also suspect from recent demonstrations, that the large amount of "pickings" gobbled up by the Senior Editor, (Meek) while at Harrisburg, has begun to trouble just a little, the conscience of the establishment, so as to cause them to solicit the prayers of the Y. M. C. A. in their behalf, which were offered at the street service in front of the Watchman office on Thursday eve last. We said amen to the effort, but despite all that, the question intruded itself upon us. Was it not casting pearls before swine?

DELICIOUS, the "Artic" Soda Water at Green's Drug Store.

TOWN Council met on Monday evening. Messrs. McClure, Thomas and Hale whose term of service expired, retiring, and George A. Bayard, Edward A. Nolan and Lafayette Mulhollan, elected last election, taking their places.

Robert Valentine was elected President; James H. Rankin, Secretary for the ensuing year; James Fannon, Janitor; Cyrus Stricklanp, Superintendent of Water Works, and Michael Runkle, Street Commissioner.

The following standing committees were appointed:

Finance—E. C. Humes, Chairman; Daniel Rhoads, John B. Ettele.

Street Crossings—Daniel Rhoads, Chairman; John B. Ettele, Lafayette Mulhollan.

Nuisances—George A. Bayard, Chairman: T. R. Reynolds, E. C. Humes.

Water—T. R. Reynolds, Chairman; Geo. A. Bayard, John Todd.

Alleys—E. A. Nolan, Chairman; Lafayette Hulhollan, John Todd.

The regular meetings of the Town Council are held on the first and third Mondays of each month.

G. A. S. W. stands for Green's "Artic" Soda Water.

LEARN TO KEEP HOUSE.—No young lady can be too well instructed in anything which will affect the comfort of a family. Whatever position in society she occupies, she needs a practical knowledge of household duties. She may be placed in circumstances that it will not be necessary for her to perform such domestic labor but on this account she needs no less knowledge than if she was obliged to preside personally over the cooking stove and pantry. Mothers are frequently so nice and particular that they do not like to give up any part of the care to their children. This is a great mistake in their management, for they are often burdened with labor and need relief. Children should be early taught to make themselves useful—to assist their parents every way in their power, and consider it a privilege to do so. Young people cannot realize the importance of a thorough knowledge of housewifery; but those who have suffered the ignorance, can well appreciate it.

FOREPAUGH.—The grandest sensation was the entrance into our town on Saturday last, of the great Menagerie and Circus owned by Adam Forepaugh. This is emphatically the largest and best show that has ever traveled through or exhibited in this country. We never saw so many people in town before upon a show day. The crowd was immense. We think we are in bounds when we say that there were fully four thousand people great and small, in town on Saturday last. The two large pavilions were erected in the meadow, belonging to D. G. Bush, Esq., near the beautiful spring which supplies our town with water. At the appointed time the immense crowd assembled to see the best and finest specimens of the animal kingdom ever exhibited in this country. The advertisement was really not up to the reality. But strange to say, nearly every person hurried through the animal department, and entered the Circus. It was indeed amusing to us to see how little most people thought of the animal show, and how they admired the circus. Every body went to the circus but one woman, she stood upon her dignity and would not enter the circus pavilion. She was consistent. The show is first class, and Mr. Forepaugh has well earned and fully deserves the reputation of owning the largest and best show in the United States.

A TEMPLE OF HONOR was instituted at Osceola on Monday, the 1st inst., by D. G. W. T., J. A. Gonoe. They are fitting up a hall and will soon be working in earnest for the cause which they have espoused.....HOUTZDALE it is said has thirteen licensed Hotels. When it is stated that Houtzdale is a place of but little more than e years growth, some of our readers may query how the balance of the citizens employ themselves.....ALBERT OWEN, Esq., has began the erection of a brick block on the corner of Front and Beaver streets which is to extend from the corner to the new block of Dr. Potter's. When complete this will form a row of brick fronts the full length of the square.....THE coal trade has never been so brisk as at the present time. The mines, except at Morrisdale where they have a strike, are running to their full capacity and find it difficult to keep pace with the demand. L. W. Munson & Co., have put twenty-five additional men into their drift this week, and are still unable to fill their orders.—Phillipsburg Journal.

EVERY one should try Green's "Artic" Soda.

NEW GOODS.—We stated two weeks since, that Mr. Joseph Devling had purchased the entire interest of the store formerly known as the store of Forster & Devling, and designs henceforth to take charge of the mammoth establishment himself. Mr. Devling is well known to our people, as one of the most competent men in the country, and as one who understands the mercantile business in all its particulars. He is not only a clever, but he is a liberal man. He advertises extensively, and thus shows that he is not ashamed of what he offers for sale, and that he is not too niggardly or close to give a customer a good bargain. He has just received a magnificent lot of goods, Boots and Shoes, Groceries, Carpets &c., &c., from the city, and we sincerely hope our readers will call and examine his stock before purchasing elsewhere. A visit to the store of Joseph Devling, will pay you and pay you well. Try it. As this is not a paid puff we can say we were never in better earnest in our life.

LITTLE THINGS.—The preciousness of little things was never more beautifully expressed than by B. F. Taylor in the following:—"Little words are the sweetest to hear; little charities fly farthest, and stay longest on the wing; little lakes are the stillest; little hearts are the fullest, and little farms are the best tilled. Little books are the most read, and little songs the best loved. And when nature would make anything especially rare and beautiful, she makes it little—little pearles, little diamonds, little dews. Everybody calls that little which he loves best on earth."

SUDDEN DEATH.—On Sunday morning, the 14th inst., in Union township, Mrs. Maria Fisher, wife of Elijah Fisher, in the 51st year of her age. Mrs. F. had been in delicate health for some time, but was not confined to her room. On the morning above mentioned, Mr. F. went to her room to awake her for the purpose of seeing the procession of Forepaugh's Menagerie passing, when he found her dead. Mrs. F. was beloved by all who knew her, and leaves a large number of friends to mourn their loss.

H. H. Stone, at the Arcade Saloon has everything fixed up in grand style, and without doubt has one of the best eating saloons in town. He does not sell anything that will intoxicate, consequently his establishment is at all times quiet and orderly, but he does sell everything in the eating line, and got up in the best of style. Mr. Stone knows how to please his patrons, as his large run of custom indicates. Call and see him often.

CONVENTION OF Y. M. C. A.—The convention of the Young Men's Christian Association in accordance with previous arrangements and call, convened in the M. E. Church, Bellefonte, at 2 o'clock p. m., Wednesday, May 10th. General Beaver, president of the Y. M. C. A., of Bellefonte, in the chair, called the meeting to order. The exercises during the afternoon session were varied and interesting. The discussion engaged in by Rev. K. A. Burnell, of Chicago, and Mr. John Morrow of Pittsburg, and others, were plain, practicable, simple and instructive. The singing by Mr. Ira D. Sankey, of New Castle, Pa., was very fine, and one of the most interesting and entertaining parts of the exercises, and seemed to possess the whole with a cheerfulness of life and good feeling. The street service held on corner of Bishop and Allegheny streets, was attended by a large concourse of people, who listened most attentively to the earnest addresses by Rev. K. A. Burnell and Mr. John Morrow—one of whom in relating his personal experience, stated that he was first convicted of sin and received his first religious impressions at a camp meeting, and really was indebted to the same for his conversion. The evening session in the M. E. Church was fully attended and was accompanied with more than ordinary interest. Some valuable hints were thrown out, and experiences related in relation to naturalness, earnestness and heartiness in christian work. The children's meeting held in the Wigwam, on Thursday at 11 o'clock a. m., was largely attended, the public schools being present in toto. Interesting talks were made by Messrs. Cree and Morrow, of Pittsburg, and Rev. K. A. Burnell. The afternoon session of the convention of Thursday, held in the M. E. Church, Rev. Mr. Baker of Altoona presiding, was characterized by a full attendence, and the questions of Association Work and Woman's Work in the church, were fully and interestingly discussed. The street meeting in front of the Bush House in the evening, was a large assemblage of people, of all grades and conditions, who seemed to give undivided attention to the inspiriting addresses and exhortations delivered by Reverends. Baker, Wrag and Burnell, which were accompanied with good effect. The evening session held in the Presbyterian church, Prof. D. H. Hestings, presiding, was marked with peculiar interest. The addresses were entertaining and instructive, and full of plain practicable truths. The convention was a decided success, and its exercises were pleasant and profitable, no doubt, to all who attended them. The whole-souled nature of the addresses and exhortations, the hearty endorsement of camp and experience meetings; the earnest recognition and advocacy of Man's free moral agency, and the enthusiastic exhortation to aggressive action on the part of chistianity and the churches, all reminded us of the spirit and aggressive warfare of pioneer Methodism. In fact the whole policy of the Y. M. C. A., in conducting christian work, is but the same, only a little enlarged, as that which has characterized the great success and glorious triumphs of the M. E. church for the past century, and the fact of this united endorsement, should exhort methodism to renewed diligence and earnestness in christian work, lest it be supplanted; while the grand success of Methodism, should be equally encouraging to the Y. M. C. A., to continue on in its way. We hope that our town will be frequently famed with these conventions, as we have every reason to believe they will do us good.

For the REPUBLICAN.

NITTANY, May 6th, 1871.

MR. EDITOR:—Permit me to occupy a part of your excellent journal in giving a short account of Sunday school affairs in this neighborhood, and let me say that it seems to me strange that we hear so little through our public papers from those who profess to be the friends of Sunday schools, and who pretend to be, and I presume, are interested in the cause. The want of a school had long been felt here, and various attempts have been made to carry one on, but after a short existence they generally come to an end, mostly from want of efficient and zealous officers. Something over a year ago, two ladies, Miss. Evelyn R. Huston and Miss. Lyde Chesebro, resolved to see what could be done in behalf of the little folks, and they went out amongst the citizens and succeeded in raising money enough to purchase a library sufficient to commence with, and appointed a meeting for organization which was well attended and the usual number of officers elected. But here a difficulty commenced, for the person elected superintendent declined to serve, and for a long time the school was without a regular superintendent, one after another of those elected to the position declineing to serve—excusing themselves by saying that they had not the requisite ability, or it interfered with their church going, or something else. But I fear that those who excuse themselves from the performance of such duties on account of a want of ability, time, &c., are much more likely to be deficient in zeal and earnestness in the Masters cause than in anything else.—But under all these adverse circumstances we have succeeded in getting the school fully organized, under the superintendence of Mr. Samuel Showers, with an efficient body of teachers, a library of some 300 volumes, a continuous session throughout the year, and an attendance reaching on Sunday last about 100.

And as I sat in the school room th at beautiful Sabbath afternoon amid the sound of youthful and happy voices, and listened to their songs of praise and adoration, I was deeply impressed with a sense of the duty devolving upon parents—and all others who can—to aid with their best efforts in establishing Sunday schools for training children in wisdoms ways, whose "ways are ways of pleasantness, and whose paths are paths of peace." And my mind was carried back to the days of that Divine Teacher and his saying "Suffer little children to come unto me and forbid them not, for of such is the kingdom of Heaven."

The success of these ladies in establishing the Franklin Sunday school should teach all others not to weary in well doing, and that where the object is good, success is sure to follow. How pleasant, too, it will be to remember that we have done something to smooth the rugged pathway of life for little feet to tread, and it will be pleasanter to us from having labored to make it pleasant for others. And the letting fall of some word of kindness and sympathy by teacher or officer to the children under their care may cheer and encourage them in the trials of after years for we all know

"How sweetly fall the accents
Of a kind and gentle word
On the heart oppressed and lonely
Struggling with afflictions load." R.

For the REPUBLICAN.

OIL CITY, May 12th 1871.

DEAR BROWN:—Just arrived here two days ago, after a pleasant, though somewhat tiresome trip. As I traveled almost directly through to this place, my observation of the country through which I passed was rather limited, and shall not therefore attempt a description. Having been absent from your town several days before starting on this trip, I was not cognizant of the changes that had just taken place, nor the changes contemplated in the, not far distant future, in your town. While on my journey thus far I met a Bellefonter who informed me that the Brokerhoff House as a hotel was closed, that Houseal & Krom had vamoosed the ranch, and had gone to the Montour House, Lock Haven, and that the Bush House was kindly extending its hospitalities through its polite host, Frank, to the traveling public generally. We say good for the Bush House, its a big institution, and, Colonel Bush who erected it, having invested more capital, mind, and muscle for the improvement of Bellefonte than any other one, or two men in it, deserves success. I was pleased to learn that the Colonel was on top of the heap. I am told since the Bush end of town is looking up, Sussman has worn a most benignant smile, accompanied with an exclamation, to all he meets, business is increasing "powerfully." My friend also informed me that rumor whispered that there was a contemplated change, in the location of some of the public buildings. That Colonel Bush had made a proposition to the county, offering the meadow at the Spring for the erection of a new Court House, &c., which was being considered favorably. Me thinks a move of that kind would agitate the pool of business society to no little extent, especially the up town part of it. The erection of a Court House and other public buildings, in the meadow, would evidently put the plume of success in the Colonels hat, big, and they, no doubt, he thinks, would fitly succeed the Bowling alley et cetera, destroyed by fire not long since. The Colonel has our best wishes. We understand that part of the programme, of change, is for the M. E. Curch of your town, to humble itself by coming down off the hill, and convert the Court House into, or erect a new temple of worship on its site. The location would be the best and most favorable for a church site in town, and the move would be a big thing for the M. E. Church of your city. Indeed it seems to us as most too big a thing; but as the M. E. Church has been surprising the world recently, with the great things of its accomplishment, there is not much doubt of its success in any enterprise it undertakes. We heartly sympathize with the move and will lend it our delicate support; and if the enterprise be successful, it will confer on the M. E. Church of your place, the degree of prestige it merits. If there be any foundation for the whisper, and the above changes were to speedily take place, the comparative growth and business interests of your city would be materially affected. The Bush locality would be the business centre of the place, and the town would expand in a southernly direction with unexampled rapidity. If the scheme be practicable or not, is the question to be settled by those most directly interested, and if settled favorably to its prosecution, we say, go in and win—anything to enliven the town. Being a little surprised on the receipt of the above intelligence, and being interested in Bellefonte and its future, we felt obliged to communicate to you, the representative of the news which concerns the locality, as well as the public generally, the rumors of a material character outside, and concerning the city. We suggest that Penns Valley constitute themselves a committee of investigation of the matters pertaining to change of public buildings, and look out for breakers and high taxes.
